

Leave no Trace
 Consider all of these trails and campsites to be user-maintained. If you can leave a place cleaner than you found it, you recognize these facilities for what they are – your property. Never smoke while walking, never build a fire in windy conditions, and keep fires small (or preferably use a camp stove).

THE SLOCAN VALLEY

WELCOME to the Slocan Valley. This map shows some of the possibilities for adventure in our valley, but since road and trail maintenance conditions change every year, please confirm access before heading out. Trail descriptions on the back side show:

* These facilities are operated by the BC Forest Service, 365-8600, <http://www.for.gov.bc.ca/hfp/rec/rec.htm>
 * These are Parks BC facilities, <http://wlapwww.gov.bc.ca/bcparks/recreation.htm>
 Trails and Campsites with no designation are private, or operated by local volunteers. Check locally for conditions. Enjoy your adventure!

Many of the trails shown here were built, and are still maintained, by volunteers. We extend a big thank-you for your hard work over the years. And let's all respect their efforts by doing what we can to help out.

Respect Wildlife
 The best way to respect animals is to avoid them. Never leave your pack/ food/garbage unattended, and make sure to store it out of reach at night – either 6m up a tree or under a large boulder in the alpine – well away from camp. Make enough noise to warn animals of your approach, especially in noisy conditions and dense vegetation.
